Cultures of Transnational Adoption Toby Alice Volkman, 2005-06-10 During the 1990s the number of children adopted from poorer countries to the more affluent West grew exponentially Close to 140 000 transnational adoptions occurred in the United States alone While in an earlier era adoption across borders was assumed to be straightforward a child traveled to a new country and stayed there by the late twentieth century adoptees were expected to acquaint themselves with the countries of their birth and explore their multiple identities Listservs Web sites and organizations creating international communities of adoptive parents and adoptees proliferated With contributors including several adoptive parents this unique collection looks at how transnational adoption creates and transforms cultures The cultural experiences considered in this volume raise important questions about race and nation about kinship biology and belonging and about the politics of the sending and receiving nations Several essayists explore the images and narratives related to transnational adoption Others examine the recent preoccupation with roots and birth cultures They describe a trip during which a group of Chilean adoptees and their Swedish parents traveled home to Chile the culture camps attended by thousands of young adult Korean adoptees whom South Korea is now eager to reclaim as overseas Koreans and adopted children from China and their North American parents grappling with the question of what Chinese or Chinese American identity might mean Essays on Korean birth mothers Chinese parents who adopt children within China and the circulation of children in Brazilian families reveal the complexities surrounding adoption within the so called sending countries Together the contributors trace the new geographies of kinship and belonging created by transnational adoption Contributors Lisa Cartwright Claudia Fonseca Elizabeth Alice Honig Kay Johnson Laurel Kendall Eleana Kim Toby Alice Volkman Barbara Yngvesson

Brothers and Sisters in Adoption Arleta James, 2012-02-15 What about the kids already there How do they do when a child with a challenging past joins a family by adoption When experienced parents decide to adopt an older child or a sibling group they jump through all kinds of bureaucratic hoops background checks interviews group meetings reading assignments classes etc But most often the typically developing children these adults are already parenting whether through birth or adoption are left out of the process informed that a new kid is coming and simply expected to adjust to the addition of another sibling The addition of a child with a history of neglect or trauma cannot be a seamless transition The expectations of everyone involved parents new siblings and yes professionals facilitating the adoption must be realistic taking into account that the new child will need special attention that may take away time and attention from the already resident kids that family life is likely to be turned topsy turvy until appropriate counseling and support are in place that relationships will change Therapist Arleta James is certainly not the first person to recognize this but she is the first to do something about it Brothers and Sisters in Adoption offers insights and examples and sturdy practical proven tools for helping newly configured families prepare accept react and mobilize to become a new and different family meeting the practical physical and emotional needs of all its members These well prepared and supported families are the ones who thrive
