Fernández Riverola, 2008-09-16 The success of Bioinformatics in recent years has been prompted by research in mole lar biology and medicine in initiatives like the human genome project The volume and diversification of data has increased so much that it is very hard if not impossible to analyze it by human experts The analysis of this growing body of data intensified by the development of a number of high throughput experimental techniques that are generating the so called omics data has prompted for new computational methods New global approaches such as Systems Biology have been emerging replacing the reductionist view that dominated biology research in the last decades requiring the coordinated efforts of biological researchers with those related to data analysis mathematical modelling and computer science Computational methods have been helping in tasks related to knowledge discovery modelling and optimization tasks This workshop brings the opportunity to discuss applications of Bioinformatics and Computational Biology exploring the interactions between computer scientists

Robin Hickman,David Banister,2014-02-05 Sustainable mobility has long been sought after in cities around the world particularly in industrialised countries but also increasingly in the emerging cities in Asia Progress however appears difficult to make as the private car still largely fuelled by petrol or diesel remains the mainstream mode of use Transport is the key sector where carbon dioxide CO2 emissions seem difficult to reduce Transport Climate Change and the City seeks to develop achievable and low transport CO2 emission futures in a range of international case studies including in London Oxfordshire Delhi Jinan and Auckland The aim is that the scenarios as developed and the consideration of implementation and governance issues can help us plan for and achieve attractive future travel behaviours at the city level The alternative is to continue with only incremental progress against CO2 reduction targets to sleepwalk into climate change difficulties oil scarcity a poor quality of life and to continue with the high traffic casualty figures The topic is thus critical with transport viewed as central to the achievement of the sustainable city and reduced CO2 emissions This is B'nai B'rith Bernard
