Multiple Solution Methods for Teaching Science in the Classroom Stephen DeMeo,2008 For the first time in science education the subject of multiple solution methods is explored in book form While a multiple method teaching approach is utilized extensively in math education there are very few journal articles and no texts written on this topic in science Teaching multiple methods to science students in order to solve quantitative word problems is important for two reasons First it challenges the practice by teachers that one specific method should be used when solving problems Secondly it calls into question the belief that multiple methods would confuse students and retard their learning Using a case study approach and informed by research conducted by the author this book claims that providing students with a choice of methods as well as requiring additional methods as a way to validate results can be beneficial to student learning A close reading of the literature reveals that time spent on elucidating concepts rather than on algorithmic methodologies is a critical issue when trying to have students solve problems with understanding It is argued that conceptual understanding can be enhanced through the use of multiple methods in an environment where students can compare evaluate and verbally discuss competing methodologies through the facilitation of the instructor This book focuses on two very useful methods proportional reasoning

PR and dimensional analysis DA These two methods are important because they can be used to solve a large number of problems in all of the four academic sciences biology chemistry physics and earth science This book concludes with a plan to integrate DA and PR into the academic science curriculum starting in late elementary school through to the introductory college level A challenge is presented to teachers as well as to textbook writers who rely on the single method paradigm to consider an alternative way to teach scientific problem solving Resources in Education ,1999 Journal of Education ,1883 The Publishers Weekly ,1889 Transdisciplinary Research on Learning and Teaching: Chances and Challenges Matthias Stadler, Frank Fischer, Arthur C. Copyright Office, 1969 Publishers' Weekly ,1894 Homework, Learning and Academic Success: The Role of Family and Contextual Variables Antonio Valle, Susana Rodríguez, Pedro Rosário, Mar Lorenzo Moledo, 2020-02-24 The main purpose of this Research Topic is to analyze and identify the main family and contextual variables that are involved in the process of carrying out homework This will require studying the role played by teachers students and families in order to ensure that schoolwork is a useful learning tool Although the role of the student is obviously crucial in homework research has focused on the cumulative time spent by the student carrying out homework However the time spent on homework is not in itself evidence of the student's involvement nor is time spent indicative of quality time Indeed an excess of time can sometimes denote low competence in a field of knowledge while spending less time on homework could be indicative of high competence It is more likely that a high dedication of time spent on homework reflects high motivation or comprehension deficits rather than commitment to learning or academic motivation In tandem with the role of the student teachers as responsible for prescribing homework assignments for students also become central players in the process of completing homework assignments The decisions that teachers make about homework prescriptions and the amount and type of tasks they set will determine to a large extent the quality of the homework process including the student's motivation and the student's level of engagement with homework Furthermore the fact that homework is useful interesting and motivating for students will depend on how the teacher prescribes those tasks and the connection established with classroom learning Teacher feedback also acquires particular relevance for this point by helping the students to accurately estimate the quality of their progress and overcome the difficulties they may have encountered in carrying out their homework Lastly the effectiveness of teacher feedback depends on its contribution to the student s educational progress and how that student will perform in the future In addition to the student who performs the task and the teacher who prescribes and corrects it we must not lose sight of parents role Although there are discrepancies regarding the role that parents play in relation to homework it is evident that their implication has important consequences not only on the final result of those tasks but also on the very process of carrying them out Everything seems to indicate that the family environment and more specifically the support and feedback provided by parents is a factor that can determine the involvement of students in school duties In this way providing emotional support encouraging children to get involved can contribute positively to improving their motivation and interest in the performance of homework The objective of this Research Topic is to provide researchers and professionals in psychology and education settings with some of the most recent empirical evidence regarding the homework process its prescription and correction Overall we aim to cease making homework a source of conflict and controversy at the socio educational level in order to provide useful instruments for improving the quality of student learning This work was developed with the financing of the research projects EDU2013 44062 P MINECO EDU2017 82984 P MEIC
