A Stranger At Home A True Story:

A Stranger At Home Christy Jordan-Fenton, Margaret-Olemaun Pokiak-Fenton, 2011-09-01 Margaret can't wait to see her family but her homecoming is not what she expected. Traveling to be reunited with her family in the arctic, 10-year-old Margaret Pokiak can hardly contain her excitement. It's been two years since her parents delivered her to the school run by the dark-cloaked nuns and brothers. Coming ashore, Margaret spots her family but her mother barely recognizes her, screaming "Not my girl." Margaret realizes she is now marked as an outsider. And Margaret is an outsider; she has forgotten the language and stories of her people and she can't even stomach the food her mother prepares. However, Margaret gradually relearns her language and her family's way of living. Along the way, she discovers how important it is to remain true to the ways of her people and to herself. Highlighted by archival photos and striking artwork, this first-person account of a young girl's struggle to find her place will inspire young readers to ask what it means to belong.

Teaching Social Justice Using Postcolonial Texts Geraldine Balzer, Teresa Strong-Wilson, Anne Burke, 2023-07-28 This book explores how teachers can re-examine their emotional investments in enacting dominant settler values through changing their text selection and teaching practices. Based on a longitudinal qualitative research study conducted by a national team of literacy scholars in collaboration with practicing literacy teachers at eight sites across Canada, the book investigates how groups of teachers working collaboratively in inquiry groups develop and implement curriculum to promote their own and their students' understandings of social justice in postcolonial and settler spaces. In particular, the book highlights the rich and dynamic landscape of postcolonial authors, illustrators, and texts; the development of culturally sensitive curricula and critical pedagogies possible in addressing contemporary and historical issues both local and global. This book is primarily of interest to literacy scholars, literacy instructors, teacher educators in teacher education programs, educational leaders, practicing teachers from the K-12 spectrum, and school district staff and policy makers with responsibilities for or interests in the potential of literacy and literature engagement for social justice education. The book is also of interest to postsecondary educators and teacher educators wishing to use literature in social justice, anti-racist, and anti-oppressive courses.

A Stranger's Gift Tom Hallman, 2013 Tom Hallman Jr. shares his journey of faith from indifferent agnostic to growing believer. Faith Hallman tells us, "I'm looking in the mirror in the morning and wondering why. It's about doubt and hope. It's catching a glimpse of a beacon piercing the fog of life and walking toward it, never knowing if you're headed in the right direction but pressing onward."

A Stranger's Journey David Mura, 2018-08-01 Long recognized as a master teacher at writing programs like VONA, the Loft, and the Stonecoast MFA, David Mura has written a book on creative writing that addresses our increasingly diverse American literature. Mura argues for a more inclusive and expansive definition of craft, particularly in relationship to race, even as he elucidates timeless rules of narrative construction in fiction and memoir. His essays offer technique-focused readings of writers such as James Baldwin, ZZ Packer, Maxine Hong Kingston, Mary Karr, and Garrett Hongo while making compelling connections to Mura's own life and work as a Japanese American writer. In A Stranger's Journey, Mura poses two central questions. The first involves identity: How is writing an exploration of who one is and one's place in the world? Mura examines how the myriad identities in our changing contemporary canon have led to new challenges regarding both craft and pedagogy. Here, like Toni Morrison's Playing in the Dark or Jeff Chang's Who We Be, A Stranger's Journey breaks new ground in our understanding of the relationship between the issues of race, literature, and culture. The book's second central question involves structure: How does one tell a story? Mura provides clear, insightful narrative tools that any writer may use, taking in techniques from fiction, screenplays, playwriting, and myth. Through this process, Mura candidly explores the newly evolved aesthetic principles of memoir and how questions of identity occupy a central place in contemporary memoir.

Reading the World's Stories Annette Y. Goldsmith, Theo Heras, Susan Corapi, 2016-08-11

Reading the World's Stories is volume 5 in the Bridges to Understanding series of annotated international youth literature bibliographies sponsored by the United States Board on Books for Young People (USBBY). USBBY is the United States chapter of the International Board on Books for Young People (IBBY), a Switzerland-based nonprofit whose mission is to bring books and children together. The series promotes sharing international children's books as a way to facilitate intercultural understanding and meet new literary voices. This volume follows Children's Books from Other Countries (1998), The World through Children's Books (2002), Crossing Boundaries with Children's Books (2006), and Bridges to Understanding: Envisioning the World through Children's Books (2011) and acts as a companion book to the earlier titles. Centered around the theme of the importance of stories, the guide is a resource for discovering more recent global books that fit many reading tastes and educational needs for readers aged 0-18 years. Essays by storyteller Anne Pellowski, author Beverley Naidoo, and academic Marianne Martens offer a variety of perspectives on international youth literature. This latest installment in the series covers books published from 2010-2014 and includes English language imports as well as translations of children's and young adult literature first published outside of the United States. These books are supplemented by a smaller number of culturally appropriate books from the US to help fill in gaps from underrepresented countries. The organization of the guide is geographic by region and country. All of the more than 800 entries are recommended, and many of the books have won awards or achieved other recognition in their home countries. Forty children's book experts wrote the annotations. The entries are indexed by author, translator, illustrator, title, and subject. Back matter also includes international book awards, important organizations, and research collections, and a selected directory of publishers known for publishing books from other countries.

The Stranger's Welcome Steve Reece, 1992-12-31

For more than two millennia, Homer's poetry has stirred the imagination of its readers. Originally recited by traveling bards, these poems are exceptionally rich in conventional elements that helped the poets remember works thousands of lines long. As dynamic ingredients of oral poetry, these elements have accrued deep meaning and, for a well-informed audience, they call significant.

associations to mind In The Stranger's Welcome Steve Reece treats eighteen hospitality scenes in the Iliad the Odyssey and the Homeric Hymns and reveals key aspects and standard elements of such scenes Further he demonstrates how Homeric listeners might comprehend the new and innovative by relying on their knowledge of the conventional and familiar This tension between conventional and innovative between the traditional background and the individual performance distinguishes the aesthetics of Homeric poetry Of interest to students and scholars of oral poetry folklore Homeric literature and Greek literature in general The Stranger's Welcome offers a practical approach whereby a reading audience may understand a hearing one

The Authentic Life Dale A. Johnson, 2013-01-21 I believe it takes a lifetime to learn how to be an authentic human being When we are young we think we know how to live The bruises and battles of life condition us to eventually realize that we are not yet wise We look at the young as did Plato and shake our heads Somehow in the midst of growing up and maturing we begin to develop an inner wisdom unless we throw away the lessons we learn along the way It is a perilous journey In a sense every one of us is on a Hero s Journey seeking to find ourselves our origins and our purpose

August 29 2005 was the day that Mother Nature decided to once again slam dunk the Gulf Coast as she sent Hurricane Katrina careening into basically the same area that Hurricane Camille hit in 1969 This book describes the events as Katrina roared into Diamondhead Mississippi a 35 year old retirement community of 8 000 residents that sits on the top of the Bay of St Louis five miles north of the Gulf of Mexico Diamondhead is located just to the right of where the eye of the storm hit The book also touches on the devastation of surrounding towns such as the Kiln Waveland and Bay St Louis and more Title is a gripping portrait of a small community convinced that water would never come over Interstate Highway 10 I 0 and reach its streets Diamondhead was thrown into chaos as the fury of Katrina sent tornadoes and floodwaters of up to thirty feet of water into its streets and homes The national media failed to consider this community as hard hit by Katrina although some 500 homes were uninhabitable following the storm First hand personal and bizarre survival stories of real people many who stayed for the storm are revealed as they remember that terrifying day These detailed anecdotes are accompanied by dozens of photos This is the story of a community that was left to rely on its wits ingenuity generosity and neighbors in order to return their lives to normalcy It is definitely a book for armchair storm chasers You Welcomed Me Kent
