Living with the Royal Academy Professor John Barrell, 2013-12-16 Living with the Royal Academy directs attention to the textures of artists relationships with the Royal Academy in late eighteenth and early nineteenth century Britain This essay collection considers the Academy as a lived organism one whose most effective role was as a reference point around which artists operated in their relationships with each other and with artistic practice itself Gerhard Richter Sheena Wagstaff, Benjamin H. D. Buchloh, Briony Fer, Hal Foster, Peter Geimer, Brinda Kumar, André Rottmann, 2020 Over the course of his acclaimed 60 year career Gerhard Richter b 1932 has employed both representation and abstraction as a means of reckoning with the legacy collective memory and national sensibility of post WWII Germany in both broad and very personal terms This handsomely designed book spans the artist s rich and varied oeuvre from the early 1960s to the present including photo paintings portraits large scale abstract series and works on glass Essays by leading experts on the artist illuminate Richter s preoccupation with painting in relation to other modes of representation and emphasize the ongoing importance of the medium s formal and conceptual possibilities in contemporary art Art and Form Sam Rose, 2019-03-25 This important new study reevaluates British art writing and the rise of formalism in the visual arts from 1900 to 1939 Taking Roger Fry as his starting point Sam Rose rethinks how ideas about form influenced modernist culture and the movement s significance to art history today In the context of modernism formalist critics are often thought to be interested in art rather than life a stance exemplified in their support for abstract works that exclude the world outside But through careful attention to early twentieth century connoisseurship aesthetics art education design and art in colonial Nigeria and India Rose builds an expanded account of form based on its engagement with the social world Art and Form thus opens discussions on a range of urgent topics in art writing from its history and the constructions of high and low culture to the idea of global modernism Rose demonstrates the true breadth of formalism and shows how it lends a new richness to thought about art and visual culture in the early to mid twentieth century Accessibly written and analytically sophisticated Art and Form opens exciting new paths of inquiry into the meaning and lasting importance of formalism and its ties to modernism It will be invaluable for scholars and enthusiasts of art history and visual culture

The Literate Eye Rachel Teukolsky, 2009-07-30 Rather than focusing on German philosophy or the French avant gardes as many books on the history of aesthetics do Teukolsky takes up British responses to modern art controversies thus providing a unique view on the development of artistic forms and art history She considers the canonical writing of authors like John Ruskin Walter Pater and Oscar Wilde alongside texts belonging to the rich field of Victorian print culture gallery reviews scientific treatises satirical cartoons advertisements and early photography monographs among them Spanning the years 1840 to 1910 her argument also adds substance to our understanding of the transition from Victorianism to modernism a period of especially lively exchange between artists and intellectuals here narrated with careful attention given to the historical particularities and real events that stamped their imprint on such interactions

Art, Identity and Cosmopolitanism Samuel Shaw,2024-01-31 Samuel Shaw s engaging new book on William Rothenstein takes a figure who has frequently made a fleeting appearance in texts on twentieth century British art and puts him centre stage Informed by rigorous research in archives and private collections in Europe and the United States Shaw s discussion of Rothenstein s work as an artist campaigner educator and organiser will be of interest to anyone seeking out more complex cultural histories of this period Shaw s narrative is an impressive balance of detailed discussion about an individual s career and a larger argument about the tensions between the nationalism and cosmopolitanism that shaped the early twentieth century art world Sarah Victoria Turner Director of the Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art In this superbly well researched book Samuel Shaw argues convincingly that a commitment to British identity including the experience of British Jews is in no way at odds with a cosmopolitan openness to artistic activity across the whole of Europe Asia and beyond This will be the standard work on Rothenstein in his time for years to come and required reading for anyone interested in the international artworld of the period Elizabeth Prettejohn Professor of History of Art University of York The artist writer and teacher William Rothenstein 1872 1945 was a significant figure in the British art world of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries He was a conspicuously cosmopolitan character born to a German Jewish family in the north of England he attended art school in Paris wrote the first English monograph on the Spanish artist Goya and became a prominent collector and supporter of Indian art However Rothenstein s cosmopolitanism was a complex affair His relationship with his English European and Jewish identities was ever changing responding to wider shifts on the political and cultural stage This book traces those changes through the artist s writings and through his art analysing a range of paintings drawings and prints created from the 1890s into the 1930s This book the first in depth study of Rothenstein s art draws on extensive archival material to situate his practice within broader debates regarding transnational exchange and the development of modern art in Britain

British art ,201? New Art, New World Margaret Garlake,1998 During the years following World War II Britain was plagued by privation xenophobia and humiliation from the loss of colonial territories and political power At the same time the country was in the midst of a dawning triumphalism seen first in the Festival of Britain then in the new Coventry Cathedral and finally in the international status accorded to British art by the early 1960s This book sets the visual arts in the social and political context of these complex years Margaret Garlake establishes the intellectual historical and organizational frameworks within which art was made and received by critics and the public She discusses problems raised by abstract art links between art and politics culminating in the Unknown Political Prisoner competition and misapprehensions concerning art from the colonial territories She describes such new institutions as the Arts and British Councils the Institute of Contemporary Arts and commercial galleries all of which played crucial roles in sustaining artists and promoting their work She examines the perception of a national tradition grounded visually in landscape and place but heavily influenced by politics And she investigates the negotiations undertaken by artists and critics sensitive to the nuances of tradition to respond to the impact of an international American oriented art Finally Garlake focuses on the broad themes within which many artists worked including public art landscape the city and the human body as mother sex object survivor or worker

British Art and the East India Company Geoff Quilley, 2020 Examines the role of the East India Company in the production and development of British art demonstrating how art and related forms of culture were closely tied to commerce and the rise of the commercial state This book examines the role of the East India Company in the production and development of British art during the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries when a new school of British art was in its formative stages with the foundation of exhibiting societies and the Royal Academy in 1768 It focuses on the Company's patronage promotion and uses of art both in Britain and in India and the Far East and how the Company and its trade with the East were represented visually through maritime imagery landscape genre painting and print making It also considers how for artists such as William Hodges and Arthur William Devis the East India Company and its provision of a wealthy market in British India provided opportunities for career advancement through alignment with Company commercial principles In this light the book's main concern is to address the conflicted and ambiguous nature of art produced in the service of a corporation that was the scandal of empire for most of its existence and how this has shaped and distorted our understanding of the history of British art in relation to the concomitant rise of Britain as a self consciously commercial and maritime nation whose prosperity relied upon global expansion increasing colonialism and the development of mercantile organisations

Transculturation in British Art, 1770-1930 Julie F. Codell, 2016 This book significantly advances the field of art and empire our knowledge of imperial artists and our sense of the visual as a key medium for understanding the meeting of cultures under asymmetrical relations of power Back cover

Cultural Identities and the Aesthetics of Britishness Dana Arnold, 2004-07-02 This book examines British imperial colonial and postcolonial national identities within their political and social contexts By considering the export adoption and creation of such cultural identities these essays show how nationhood and nationalism are self consciously defined tools designed to focus and inspire loyalty The contributors present these ideas with particular reference to English cultural identity and its interaction with the Empire They examine the national imperial and colonial aesthetic how architecture landscape painting sculpture and literature were used appropriated and re appropriated in the furtherance of social and political agendas and how this impacted on the making of Britishness in all its complexities It is demonstrated that not only did the dominant aesthetic culture reinforce the dominant political and social ideology it also re presented and re constructed the notion of British national identity

Internationalism and the Arts in Britain and Europe at the Fin de Siècle Grace Brockington, 2009 This collection of essays stems from the conference Internationalism and the Arts Anglo European Cultural Exchange at the Fin de Siècle held at Magdalene College Cambridge in July 2006 The growth of internationalism in Europe at the fin de siècle encouraged confidence in the possibility of peace A wartorn century later it is easy to forget such optimism Flanked by the Franco Prussian war and the First World War the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries were marked by rising militarism Themes of national consolidation and aggression have become key to any analysis of the period Yet despite the drive towards political and cultural isolation transnational networks gathered increasing support This book examines the role played by artists writers musicians and intellectuals in promoting internationalism It explores the range of individuals media and movements involved from cosmopolitan characters such as Walter Sickert and Henri La Fontaine through internationalist art societies to periodicals performance and the mobility of the Arts and Crafts Movement The discussion takes in the geographical breadth of Europe incorporating Belgium Bohemia Britain France Germany Hungary Italy Norway Poland Russia and Slovakia Drawing on the work of scholars from across Europe and America the collection makes a statement about the complexity of European identities at the fin de siècle as well as about the possibilities for interdisciplinary research in our own era

The Politics of the Art in Britain C. Gray, 2000-10-11 The organization and management of the arts and public sector arts organizations in Britain have undergone major changes over the last twenty years This book analyzes the process and politics of change in the world of the arts and develops an analytical framework for understanding an under researched area of British political life

Inventing Britain Tate Britain (London), David Bindman, 2004

Culture and Consensus (Routledge Revivals) Robert Hewison, 2015-06-11 Culture and Consensus first published in 1995 and a revised edition in 1997 explores the history of the relationship between politics and the arts in Britain since 1940 and shows how the search for a secure sense of English identity has been reflected in official and unofficial attitudes to the arts architecture landscape and other emblems of national significance Illustrating his argument with a series of detailed case histories Robert Hewison analyses how Britain's cultural life has reached its present enfeebled condition and suggests a way forward This book will be of interest to students of art and cultural studies

Contemporary British Art Grant Pooke, 2011 The last few decades have been among the most dynamic within recent British cultural history Artists across all genres and media have developed and re fashioned their practice against a radically changing social and cultural landscape both national and global This book takes a fresh look at some of the themes ideas and directions which have informed British art since the later 1980s through to the first decade of the new millennium In addition to discussing some iconic images and examples it also looks more broadly at the contexts in which a new post conceptual generation of artists those typically born since the late 1950s and 1960s have approached and developed aspects of their professional practice Contemporary British Art is an ideal introduction to the field To guide the reader the book is organised around genres or related practices painting sculpture and installation and film video and performance The first chapter explores aspects of the contemporary art market and some of the contexts within which art is made supported and exhibited The chapters that discuss various genres of art practice also mention books that may be useful to support further reading Extensively illustrated with a wide range of work both known and less well known from artists such as Chris Ofili Rachel Whiteread Damien Hirst Banksy Anthony Gormley Jack Vettriano Sam Taylor Wood Steve McQueen and Tracey Emin and many more      British Art in Cultural Field ,2012
