Sub-versions Ciaran Ross, 2010 From Swift's repulsive shit flinging Yahoos to Beckett's dying but never quite dead moribunds Irish literature has long been perceived as being synonymous with subversion and all forms of subversiveness But what constitutes a subversive text or a subversive writer in twenty first century Ireland The essays in this volume set out to redefine and rethink the subversive potential of modern Irish literature Crossing three central genres one common denominator running through these essays whether dealing with canonical writers like Yeats Beckett and Flann O'Brien or lesser known contemporary writers like Sebastian Barry or Robert McLiam Wilson is the continual questioning of Irish identity Irishness going from its colonial paradigm and stereotype of the subaltern in MacGill to its uneasy implications for gender representation in the contemporary novel and the contemporary drama A subsidiary theme inextricably linked to the identity problematic is that of exile and its radical heritage for all Irish writing irrespective of its different genres Sub Versions offers a cross cultural and trans national response to the expanding interest in Irish and postcolonial studies by bringing together specialists from different national cultures and scholarly contexts Ireland Britain France and Central Europe The order of the essays is by genre This study is aimed both at the general literary reader and anyone particularly interested in Irish Studies

Trauma and Dissociation in the Works and Life of Sebastian Barry Niko Pomakis, 2021 Can language and literature cure psychological trauma If so what forms do they have to take in doing so When does language hit the wall where the unspeakable mandates silence And where might literature come in as the rescuing hand by offering forms of expression which are rooted in speech but transcend the merely spoken This study confronts these issues through the double lenses of Sebastian Barry's oeuvre and the complex of dissociative disorders that are at work both in his creative output and the ways in which he fictionalizes dark and traumatic biographical data

Out of History Christina Hunt Mahony, 2006 The essays address Barry's engagement with the contemporary cultural debate on Ireland and also with issues that inform postcolonial critical theory Jacket

Haunted historiographies Matthew Schultz,2016-05-16 The spectres of history haunt Irish fiction In this compelling study Matthew Schultz maps these rhetorical hauntings across a wide range of postcolonial Irish novels and defines the spectre as a non present presence that simultaneously symbolises and analyses an overlapping of Irish myth and Irish history By exploring this exchange between literary discourse and historical events Haunted historiographies provides literary historians and cultural critics with a theory of the spectre that exposes the various complex ways in which novelists remember represent and reinvent historical narrative It juxtaposes canonical and non canonical novels that complicate long held assumptions
