The Routledge Handbook of Social Change Richard Ballard, Clive Barnett, 2022-09-30 The Routledge Handbook of Social Change provides an interdisciplinary primer to the intellectual approaches that hold the key to understanding the complexity of social change in the twenty first century We live in a world of intense social transformation economic uncertainty cultural innovations and political turmoil Established understandings of issues of well being development democratisation progress and sustainability are being rethought both in academic scholarship and through everyday practice organisation and mobilisation The contributors to this handbook provide state of the art introductions to current thinking on central conceptual and methodological approaches to the analysis of the transformations shaping economies politics and societies Topics covered include social movements NGOs the changing nature of the state environmental politics human rights anti globalism pandemic emergencies post Brexit politics the politics of resilience new technologies and the proliferation of progressive and reactionary forms of identity politics Drawing on disciplines including anthropology human geography political sociology and development studies this is a comprehensive and authoritative introduction to researching key issues raised by the challenge of making sense of the twenty first century futures

Economic Geography Andrew Wood, Susan Roberts, 2012-10-12 The turbulence of the current times has dramatically transformed the world's economic geographies The scale and scope of such changes require urgent attention With intellectual roots dating to the nineteenth century economic geography has traditionally sought to examine the spatial distributions of economic activity and the principles that account for them More recently the field has turned its attention to a range of questions relating to globalization and its impact on different peoples and places economic inequalities at different geographic scales the development of the knowledge based economy and the relationship between economy and environment Now more than ever the changing fortunes of peoples and places demands our attention Economic Geography provides a stimulating and innovative introduction to economic geography by establishing the substantive concerns of economic geographers the methods deployed to study them the key concepts and theories that animate the field and the major issues generating debate This book is the first to address the diverse approaches to economic geography as well as the constantly shifting economic geographies on the ground It encompasses traditional approaches albeit from a critical perspective while providing a thorough accessible and engaging examination of the concerns methods and approaches of the new economic geography This unique introductory text covers the breadth of economic geography while engaging with a range of contemporary debates at the cutting edge of the field Written in an accessible and lucid style this book offers a thorough and systematic introductory survey It is enhanced by pedagogical features throughout including case studies dealing with topics ranging from the head office locations of the Fortune 500 Mexico's maquiladoras to China's investments in Southern Africa This book also contains exercises based on the key concepts and annotated further reading and websites

Theories and Practices of Development Katie Willis, 2011-02-25 Global economic crisis and the implications of global environmental change have led academics and policy makers to consider how development in all parts of the world should be achieved However development has always been a contested idea While often presented as a positive process to improve people's lives the potential negative dimensions of development on people and environments must also be recognized Theories and Practices of Development provides a clear and user friendly introduction to the complex debates around how development has been understood and achieved The second edition has been fully updated and expanded to reflect global political and economic shifts as well as new approaches to development The rise of China and India is given particular attention as is the global economic crisis and its implications for development theories and practice There are new sections on faith based development and the development dimensions of climate change as well as greater engagement with development theories as they are put into practice in the Global North The book deals with the evolution of development ideas and policies focusing on economic political social environmental and spatial dimensions It highlights how development cannot be considered as a neutral concept but is entwined with inequalities in power at local as well as national and global scales The use of boxed examples tables and illustrations helps students understand complex theoretical ideas and also demonstrates how development theories are put into practice in the real world Each chapter ends with a summary section discussion topics suggestions for further reading and website resources

Genocide, Ethnonationalism, and the United Nations Hannibal Travis, 2013 Genocide Ethnonationalism and the United Nations examines a series of related crises in human civilization growing out of conflicts between powerful states or empires and indigenous or stateless peoples This is the first book to attempt to explore the causes of genocide and other mass killing by a detailed exploration of UN archives covering the period spanning from 1945 through 2011 Hannibal Travis argues that large states and empires disproportionately committed or facilitated genocide and other mass killings between 1945 and 2011 His research incorporates data concerning factors linked to the scale of mass killing and recent findings in human rights political science and legal theory Turning to potential solutions he argues that the concept of genocide imagines a future system of global governance under which the nation state itself is made subject to law The United Nations however has deflected the possibility of such a cosmopolitical law It selectively condemns genocide and has established an institutional structure that denies most peoples subjected to genocide of a realistic possibility of global justice lacks a robust international criminal tribunal or UN army and even encourages security cooperation among states that have proven to be destructive of peoples in the past Questions raised include What have been the causes of mass killing during the period since the United Nations Charter entered into force in 1945 How does mass killing spread across international borders and what is the role of resource wealth the arms trade and external interference in this process Have the United Nations or the International Criminal Court faced up to the problem of genocide and other forms of mass killing as is their mandate

Transnational Feminism and Global Advocacy in South Asia Gita Rajan,Jigna Desai,2013-09-13 Transnational feminism has been critical to feminist theorizing in the global North over the last few decades Perhaps due to its broad terminology transnational feminism can become vague and dislocated losing its ability to name specific critiques of and responses to empire race and globalization that are emboldened by its transnational remit This volume encompasses an expansive engagement and exploration of transnational South Asian feminist movements networks and critiques within the context of the popular and the diaspora in South Asia The contributing authors address key issues in a global context especially as they operate both in a situated and the diasporic imaginary of South Asia While the idea of the popular in South Asia has often been circumscribed by the spaces and cultural politics of Bollywood this interdisciplinary volume takes an innovative turn to examine how academics advocates activists and artists envision the inroads and consequences of nationalism globalization and or empire which continually remake communities and alter needs and allegiances Through ethnography literature dance cinema activism poetry and storytelling the authorsd analyse popular and social justice using a focused multidisciplinary gendered lens This book was originally published as a special issue of South Asian Popular Culture

Critical Methods for the Study of World Politics Shine Choi,Anna Selmeczi,Erzsébet Strausz,2019-12-05 This book develops an approach to both method and the socio political implications of knowledge production that embraces our embeddedness in the world that we study It seeks to enact the transformative potentials inherent in this relationship in how it engages readers It presents a creative survey of some of the newest developments in critical research methods and critical pedagogy that together go beyond the aims of knowledge transfer that often structure our practices Each contribution takes on a different shape tone and orientation and discusses a critical method or approach teasing out the ways in which it can also work as a transformative practice While the presentation of different methods is both rigorously practice based and specific contributors also offer reflections on the stakes of critical engagement and how it may play an important role in expanding and subverting existing regimes of intelligibility Contributions variously address the following key questions What makes your research method important How can others work with it How has research through this method and or the way you ended up deploying it transformed you and or your practice How did it matter for thinking about community academic collaboration and sharing knowledge This volume makes the case for re politicizing the importance of research and the transformative potentials of research methods not only in accessing the world as an object of study but as ways of acting and being in the world It will be of interest to students and scholars of international relations critical theory research methods and politics in general

The Carpetbaggers of Kabul and Other American-Afghan Entanglements Jennifer L. Fluri, Rachel Lehr, 2017 The 2001 invasion of Afghanistan by United States and coalition forces was followed by a flood of aid and development dollars and experts representing well over two thousand organizations each with separate policy initiatives geopolitical agendas and socioeconomic interests This book examines the everyday actions of people associated with this international effort with a special emphasis on small players individuals and groups who charted alternative paths outside the existing networks of aid and development This focus highlights the complexities complications and contradictions at the intersection of the everyday and the geopolitical showing how dominant geopolitical narratives influence daily life in places like Afghanistan and what happens when the goals of aid workers or the needs of aid recipients do not fit the narrative Specifically this book examines the use of gender need and grief as drivers for both common and exceptional responses to geopolitical interventions Throughout this work Jennifer L Fluri and Rachel Lehr describe intimate encounters at a microscale to complicate and dispute the ways in which Afghans and their country have been imagined described fetishized politicized vilified and rescued The authors identify the ways in which Afghan men and women have been narrowly categorized as perpetrators and victims respectively They discuss several projects to show how gender and grief became forms of currency that were exchanged for different social economic and political opportunities Such entanglements suggest the power and influence of the United States while illustrating the ways in which individuals and groups have attempted to chart alternative avenues of interaction intervention and interpretation
